I don't know how my family and friends would they'd react if I cut them "treat" sized slices based on that chart Sweet_Toof Posted 4 Nov 2010 , 7:17am Quote:Originally Posted by JanHAn Australian dessert portion is roughly 2.5 x 5 x 9 cm high, while a coffee portion is half the size of a dessert portion (about the size of a petit four). I don't know how my family and friends would they'd react if I cut them "treat" sized slices based on that chart I guess we traditionally had fruit cakes which are VERY rich and you wouldn't want more than a mouthful... even then I need to eat it with a cup of coffee to wash it down! JanH Posted 4 Nov 2010 , 7:36am An American cake serving size is normally 1x2x4" unless you use Earlene's chart.
